EOLIAN'S UPS AND DOWNS.

TERRA COTTA'S CONQUEROR COLLAPSES. A VERY SLOW HOLSE IN THE RAPID STAKES AT

The noted English jockey, Wood, has just gained a verdict or a farthing in his libel suit against a paper which carged him with pulling horses. Now, the English law of libel is as stiff as steel. The plaintiff has every advantage and the nominal verdict given for wood shows that the jurors were really convinced of his guilt. If they had thought him honest they would have given him every penny of the 5,000 pounds damages which he claimed. The stewards of the English Jockey Club, in refusing to renew Wood's e this year, did a just and proper thing, as the of Wood's libel suit has shown. England's leading jockey since Frederick Archer's death, and in refusing bim permission to ride the struck at the very source and spring of corruption which defiles the English tuck. They ed high and they hit home.

sh, for to a far greater extent it is dictated to and influenced by professional gambiers. Can any same and sober man believe that men brought up in the itter, whose wealth has all been acquired by the fare-bank, the roulette wheel or other illegal and dismeans, will hesitate to get the better or such gentlemen as Mr. Belmont, Mr. Withers, Mr. Galway, Mr. Haggin and other men of influence and ent position in the community, who own and chorses? And in order to cheat these gentleen out of their just rights they will resort to every device, every trickery, every fraud, which long practice in fleecing their fellow men at the card le or on the race track has taught them. The dean turf, to a far greater extent than the English, is overrun with bookmakers' horses. There are too few honorable gentlemen running horses and too hands are not clean. This country pockeys as unscrupulous as Wood and has a far larger proportion of stables in dishonest hands than can be horses and horses run in the interest of fare banks and there may be some hope of honest racing. But not until then. Atterican racing officials as a rule are much too timorous of scandal, much too modest and retiring, to expose and punish theivery and to protect the public even from open and obvious that the racing yesterday at the Coney Island course was altogether agreeable and satisfactory. Many careful students of racing form went away with deep furrows in their brows, wrinkled by intense efforts to explain to their own satisfaction on any theory consistents with honest sport some of the performances which they saw. They all failed. Mud explains some things, but it does not explain all the things which have occurred at this meeting. The first race was won neatly by Grimaldi, while Salisbury got second place.

In the second race Volunteer and Blazon carried most of the money, while Little Barefoot and Jay F. Dee were almost ignored. It was a comical race. a big gap for nearly half a mile, but dropped out of the race in the homestretch. Probably the riders of Blazon and Volunteer thought he would come back sterday, and they did not hurry until they reached the last quarter. Then Jay F. Dee was still sailing away serencly far in front and they never got near him. The race was six and a half furlongs, the longyear. Jay F. Dee seemed to like it, but Volunteer, Blazon and Little Barefoot appeared disgusted. But Barefoot won the selling stakes for two-yearolds at six furlongs handsomely on Wednesday. Per haps the mud stopped her yesterday. Perhaps some-thing else. Her owner was once an outcast, ruled off the respectable race courses. Perhaps it would do harm to try ruling him off again. Favor, the favorite, with McLaughlin in the saddle a combination hard to best-won the fourth race ily with Letritia in second place, Ordway third. den by William Donohue, a wealthy and thrifty jockey, was a strong favorite. His weight was 106 pounds, and Garrison could not get near enough to that to What was the amazement, the stupefacthe spectators to see the wonderful horse that on Wednesday had beaten the mighty Terra Cotta and run a mile easily in 1:40 1-4, toddle along quietly pace which a selling-plater could equal at any Eolian was never in the race. Nor was Bess Britannic led for half a mile, closely pressed by Saxony. On the lower turn Bradford and Fitzrey moved up. Brit nnic had enough in the homestretch, and Bradford, coming steadily on, won with bewildering case, Saxony second, Fitzroy a close third, the others including the renowned Eofan beaten off. The victory of the bookmakers' horse was a stunning surprise and was not at all popular. Victories of bookmakers' horses never are. This race requires no further comment. Every intelligent racing man will have his own opinion of it.

The conditions of the vace of the race is the property of the The conditions of the race on the grass let in Exile on such terms that it was a gift to him. He won in a walk, as the phrase roes.

There will be seven races on this, the closing day of the meeting, including the Good-By Stakes for twoyears-old, the Spindrift Stakes for three year-olds, the Stirrup Cup and a race of two miles on the grass. Aurelia ought to win the second race, and thus break the ice for the unlucky Haggin stable, with Favor in second place.

If Mr. Belmont starts both Raceland and George Oyster in the Spindrift Stakes he may win both first and second money. Raceland should win anyway. while if one of the Belmont colts is merely used to help the other without being run out to the last inch. THE POOL-SELLING TEST CASE FAILS. LACK OF EVIDENCE CAUSED IT-THE POINT AT IS-SUE NOT DECIDED.

The pool-selling "test case," which was expected to decide whether or not the scheme which Howe & Hummel, the criminal lawyers, defend is without the reach of the Ives Pool bill, was brought to trial yesterday before Judge Cowing, but on account of failure in the evidence the result was inconclusive. George Williams was indicted for registering a wager. Police man William Flynn, of the Second Precinct, testified trict-Attorney Jerome that he went to No. 5 Barclayst. on June 21 and filled out and signed a card which was given to him by one of Williams's clerks. The card contained a printed request that a wager be made at the grounds of the Coney Island Jockey Club at Sheepshead Bay on Choctaw at not more than 2 to 1 and made the person to whom it was delivered a common carrier to take the money to Sheepshead Bay should be made only on the grounds at Sheepshead Officer Flynn paid $5 50, the fifty cents being for expenses. Flynn said that the clerk gave him similar ones. The officer then arrested Williams. Mr. Howe, who defended Williams, was prepared to admit all the facts and wanted to proceed at once to argue as to whether the transaction was a violation of the Ives Pool bill. Mr. Jerome said that the prosecution would argue that the scheme was simply trick to evade the laws against pool-selling. Mr.

a coupen and placed the ticket on a hook with othe;

"The law which formerly prohibited betting on the horse races was modified a year ago, so that the operation of the section prohibiting it was suspended for thirty days while races were in progress on each track. So that now we may go to Jerome Park (and here the lawyer smiled at the prosecutor, a nephew of the well-known turfman from whom Jerome Park takes its name) and show our faith in our favorite horses. There may be something wrong about the act, but I have had the pleasure of meeting a Justice of the Supreme Court at such places, who was not unwilling to wager his money, and without saying anything of the present District Attorney since he assumed that office. I have certainly known of his participating in such sport before he became District Attorney. Now, we argue that the transaction which has caused this indictment was precisely such as my sending one of my clerks to Jerome Park (with another smile at the young prosecutor) or some other track, and telling him to invest $10 on—say on Eolian.

Mr. Jerome—Or on Elkwood?

Mr. Howe—Yes, or on Elkwood a few days ago. The card says that the money is to be invested only on the grounds of the racing association.

Judge Cowing—The defendant is indicted for registering and recording a bet or wager. Now, I see on this card that the blank before the word dollars has one that the blank before the word dollars has not been filled out, so that there is nothing recorded here. I do not see how the prosecution can make out a case here.

Mr. Jerome—I noticed that and I do not think this is a case we can press.

Mr. Howe—I believe that word is omitted on this

Exile was withdrawn, his owner electing to start him in the last race. Favor made play with his opponents, and won-as he pleased by half a length, McLaughin drawing a fine finish to please the gailery. Letritis made the running for six furiongs, when Favor collared her. It was amusing to see McLaughin ignore the mare endrely, and turn in his saddle to look for Ordway, of whom least was expected. The swoop did come, but it case. In this case the crime does not appear to be concilete.

Mr. Howe continued to argue that the law was unconstitutional, because it made an act a crime in some places in the State which was not a crime in other places, and he urged some general exposition of the law. Ledge Cowing Shit, nowever, that he would say nothing about the constitutionality of the law at this time. The case had not been made out and he directed an acquittal on the facts.

When the verdict of not guilty had been recorded, Mr. Howe said: "This is the only time when I have heard a verdict acquitting one of my clients and have been sorry for it."

DENYING MR. FAIR HILD'S CHARGES. JAMES BURT, A SUGAR BROKER, TAKES THE SECRE-

TARY OF THE TREASURY TO TASK. An open letter has been addressed by James Burt, the sugar broker, to Secretary Fairchild, in reply to the latter's letter, dated June 20, to George William Curtis, in regard to the investigation made here by the Hale Committee. Mr. Burt says that the Secretary of the Treasury, by implication, seriously touched his reputation for integrity and fair dealing, and calls on him to publish in full whatever evidence he possesses that would go to show wrong-doing on his pert. Mr. Burt declares his unqualified belief that there have been no frauds perpetrated here in the assessment of sugar duties during the incumbency of the present Administration, and says that if the Secretary believes that such fraud is being practised, the question naturally arises, "Why does he allow it?"

The well-worn claim of Boston sugar importers, that the rates of duty are lower in New-York than in Boston, he derides, and asks the Secretary why, when he had once decided to investigate the matter, he did not appoint an expert commission and arrive at the single incompetent and irresponsible man to make a secret, expensive and iniquitous investigation, about which he has not made any report. In referring to the wholesale dismissals in the sugar division of the Custom House, he says:

Custom House, he says:

If it was thought necessary at one time to remove sixteen men, and your order of dismissal was made out, how is it that justice was satisfied by the removal of the two Sherers, a sampler, and by the reduction of the salary of an examiner? You removed one man from the laboratory, where if any wrong-doing existed, five or six must have been implicated. We know why Jacobs was retained, and we know why Leimbach was not removed, although you did not; and we know, though you may not, why Rahl and some others were retained.

The reason why sugars were tested higher at Ros.

The reason why sugars were tested higher at Boston than here, he says, was that Mr. Leary, who had charge of the polariscope at Boston, had his instru-ment set half a degree too high, by reason of a false estimate of his quartz-plate. The fact of that polariscope being too high was ascertained and reported by the National Academy of Science. Dr. Sherer, the polariscopist here, on the other hand, correctly estimated his quartz-plate, and gave importers the benefit of a fractional doubt, when one existed. For this he was dismissed, while Mr. Leary was retained and pro-

Mr. Burt says that, in his opinion, there would be fewer complaints if the Government would sample every package of sugar immediately after landing. Resampling is very costly, and the Government method is different from the commercial methods. He shows that on a given amount of duty on sugar, assessed by Mr. Leary this year, aggregating $2,600,000, there is an increase of $12,000 over and above what there is an increase of $12,000 over and above what was paid last year on a like quantity of sugar. an average difference of one degree in the tests would have made a difference of $50,000, he argues that the increase is considerably less than one-half of one per cent of the invoice value of the sugar, and simply rep-resents probable extortion.

MR. CLARK EXPLAINS TO MR. LOEW.

HAS SOMETHING TO SAY ON THE SUBJECT. Heman Clark called on ex-Controller Loew yesterand said he regretted that in the version of his affidavit given by some of the newspapers it appeared that the remarks he ascribed to John Keenan were a reflection on Mr. Loew's integrity as a public official. He did not so intend them. When Keenan said that he wished to repay Mr. Loew the $20,000 which he alleged that Mr. Loew had paid as his assessment for he thought this was one of Keenan's excuses to en-deavor to obtain money from him for his services in trying to obtain the Aqueduct contracts for the firm of Keenan's any more than he had other stories told by the celebrated "boodler." Mr. Clark added that he had no reason to believe there was any truth in the story, and that in all his intercourse with Mr. Loew while the latter was Controller he had found him straightforward and honorable and careful of the

of his assessment, nor did he, in fact, do so, directly or indirectly. "My assessment," he continued, "was at a time when the County Democracy despaired of success and my contribution was only $4,000. Keenan 110 never asked me for any favor of any kind in connec-106 tion with the Aqueduct contracts, nor would be have dared to do so. The story that I advanced money for campaign expenses is equally untrue. Keenan never borrowed money of me or sent it to me. whole tale is false and outrageous. I am painfully sensitive about such reports, and I feel outraged and indiguant that Clark should have made such a statement."
It will be remembered that as Controller Mr. Loew was continually at war with O'Brien & Clark on account of their "extra charges" against the city.

NOT UNABLE BUT UNWILLING TO PAY.

Henry T. Edson, the son of ex-Mayor Franklin Edson, who was suspended by the Board of Managers of the Produce Exchange on Thursday, appeared on the floor of the Exchange as usual vesterday, but did formal and not on the ground that he cannot meet his business engagements, although that is the technical phrase. The facts of the case are that he purchased ome wheat from the firm of Wagar, Martin & Co., and at the settlement refused to pay some $200 loss on the grain which was claimed by the sellers. They therefore gave notice of his unwillingness to meet his obligations and caused his suspension. The matter will be referred to arbitration and will be settled in a short time. Mr. Edson is determined in his resolve not to pay, but his ability to do so and the notice posted announcing his suspension gave rise to much fun among the brokers on the floor of the Exchange.

A STRANGE APPARITION ON THE ROOF.

Was it a burglar, a lunatic or a ghost? is a question which is agitating the minds of Frank Porter and the No. 20; Park How. About 4 o'clock Thursday morning Porter was awakened by a noise on the roof of the annex adjoining the main store. He looked out of the window of his room, which is in a building in the rear of the annex, and saw a man on the roof who was acting strangely, prancing about and flourishing his arms. Porter called the watchman, and together they went on the roof, but when they arrived the man had disappeared, nor did he return, though they hid and watched for him for some time. They found upon the front edge of the roof, just over the street, a wooden snow-shovel, a watering-pot with-out norzie, and half filled with bricks; a small fireand containing some moss and a small plant. The man had pulled of some boards from the fence in the rear of the annex and made his way into the back yard, and sence climbed upon the roof which sloped back so that it could be reached without difficulty. What the man was doing up there with so many strange implements, and as uch an hour in the morning, is more than Porter can
